Throughout my journey as a computer science engineering student, I have actively engaged in a diverse range of activities and societies. By immersing myself in these extracurricular opportunities, I have honed my leadership skills, fostered teamwork, and expanded my network within the industry. As a member of the KITSW and IITM, I collaborated with fellow students to organize coding competitions and workshops, nurturing my passion for problem-solving and fostering a community of like-minded individuals. These activities have not only enhanced my technical proficiency but have also taught me the value of collaboration, innovation, and lifelong learning. Through my active participation in activities and societies, I strive to contribute to a vibrant and supportive community while continuously pushing the boundaries of my own potential
